Submission of information to the Special Procedures

You are now about to submit information to the Special Procedures. Please read through the following guidance note before filling-in your online form.

What are the Special Procedures?

The Special Procedures of the Human Rights Council are independent human rights experts who:

- monitor the situation in countries through visits;
- act on complaints of alleged human rights violations by sending communications;
- conduct thematic studies and organize expert consultations;
- contribute to the development of international human rights standards;
- engage in advocacy and raise public awareness;
- and provide advice for technical cooperation to Governments.

The experts report annually to the Human Rights Council, and the majority of the mandates also report to the General Assembly.

More information on the special procedures can be found at:

- Introduction to the Special Procedures
- List of thematic mandates
- List of country mandates
- Leaflet on Special procedures communications

What are Communications?

Communications are letters sent by the Special Procedures to Governments and others, such as intergovernmental organisations, businesses, military or security companies.
